Background

Scope and Content

Spanning 1956 to 2022, the Barbaralee Diamonstein-Spielvogel Audiovisual Collection primarily documents the programs produced by a pioneering advocate for art, architecture, historical preservation, and public policy. The collection is comprised of over 1,300 items, including analogue and digital audio and video resources, stemming from Diamonstein-Spielvogel's prolific output of books, educational programming, and interviews, as well as her work in historic preservation. Two hundred programs, including television interviews with notable artists, designers, and architects, and presentations by the Historic Landmarks Preservation Center, have been digitized by Duke University Libraries and are available on the Barbaralee Diamonstein-Spielvogel Video Archive on YouTube. Topics covered by the materials in this collection include broad categories such as art and architecture in the 20th century; historic preservation and the protection of cultural property; media and society; social conditions; and women's rights. Where resources are available on YouTube, links have been provided to the specific video. Audio resources are available through the Duke Digital Repository on request. While all master recordings are represented in this guide, the collection contains both copies of master recordings and elements that went in to creating the master recordings. For an inventory of copies and elements, contact Research Services.

Biographical/Historical

Throughout her career, Dr. Barbaralee Diamonstein-Spielvogel has served as a leading voice on some of the defining urban issues of our time, especially preservation of the historic built environment. She is a pioneering advocate of the arts, with interests in architecture, design and public policy. The first Director of Cultural Affairs for New York City, she brought the first public art to Bryant Park in 1967 and the first public performance by the Metropolitan Opera to Central Park. One of her important contributions during her tenure was to codify the inclusion of cultural institutions in the New York City annual budget process; under her leadership, the 15 cultural institutions housed in City-owned buildings or on City-owned property that had been receiving their City support from the Bureau of the Budget, were added to the agency's budget.

She was the longest-serving Landmarks Preservation Commissioner in the city's history, spanning the administrations of Mayors Lindsay, Beame, Koch, Dinkins and Giuliani from 1972 to 1987. She also served as Mayor's Representative to the New York City Art/Public Design Commission. She was appointed to the New York City Cultural Commission (where she created the the Mayor's Award of Honor for Arts and Culture), was the Chair of the New York City Landmarks Preservation Foundation from 1987-1995 (where she created and established the now official NYC Historic Districts Markers and Maps Program and the NYC Historic Districts Street Name Sign Program), and since 1995 has been the Chair of the Historic Landmarks Preservation Center.

Diamonstein-Spielvogel has served under five presidential administrations. As a White House Assistant to the Intellectual-in-Residence Professor Eric F. Goldman during the Johnson administration, she helped create the White House Fellows, Presidential House Scholars Programs, and the only White House Festival of the Arts. She was appointed by President Reagan as a founding member to the board of the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington, D.C., and served as Chair of the Subcommittee that commissioned all Public Art for the Museum. In 1996, she was appointed by President Clinton to the U.S. Commission of Fine Arts, where she was elected the first woman vice chair in its more than 100-year history. In 2010, President Obama appointed her a commissioner of the American Battle Monuments Commission; in July 2013, she was named to lead the ABMC delegation to Busan, Korea, and was the keynote speaker at the ceremonies commemorating the 60th anniversary of the armistice of the Korean War, attended by leaders and veterans of 21 participating nations. In 2022, she was appointed to the President's Advisory Committee on the Arts by President Biden.

She was appointed by the governor to the New York State Council on the Arts in 2007, served as vice chair from 2013 to 2016, and was appointed chair and CEO in 2016, serving in that capacity until 2018. In 2012, she was appointed to advise the Port Authority on the integration of public art and architecture into the World Trade Center site. After serving as a Board member from 1993 to 2007 for the New York State Historic Archives Partnership Trust, in 2019, she resumed her service to them as an advisory member.

Diamonstein-Spielvogel also has been active in many state and national Democratic campaigns. In 2013 she was elected a New York Democratic National Committee Member.

Diamonstein-Spielvogel received her doctorate with honors from New York University, and honorary doctorates from the Maryland Institute College of Art, Baltimore, MD; Longwood University, Longwood, VA; the Pratt Institute, Brooklyn NY; and Purchase College, SUNY. She is the author of twenty-four books and numerous magazine and newspaper articles, and has served as curator of eight international museum exhibitions. Her book The Landmarks of New York is in its sixth edition (2016); her most recent publication is Notable New Yorkers: The HLPC Cultural Medallions Program (2018).

She has served as interviewer/producer of nine television series for the Arts & Entertainment Network in addition to numerous programs for other national networks, such as CBS and NBC. Her interviews with artists, architects, designers, and other notables have been digitized and made available on iTunes and YouTube as part of the Duke University Barbaralee Diamonstein-Spielvogel Video Archive. Audio interviews from 1972 to 1979 by Diamonstein-Spielvogel, of numerous artists, gallerists, and art professionals are part of the Columbia University Oral History Project (https://oralhistoryportal.library.columbia.edu/document.php?id=ldpd_4076396).

Diamonstein-Spielvogel has served on the boards of numerous national and local institutions and organizations, including recent service in support of the Fresh Air Fund, the Drawing Committee of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Acquisitions Committee of the Cooper-Hewitt National Design Museum, and the N.Y. Museum of Modern Art. She is a founding director of The High Line in New York City and the Trust for the National Mall in Washington, D.C. She has served on the boards for the American Council on the Arts, the White House Endowment Fund, the Municipal Art Society, the Landmarks Conservancy and B.A.M.

Diamonstein-Spielvogel has received numerous awards and honors, including an award from H.E.L.P. in 2001 and lifetime achievement awards from Partners for Livable Places in Washington, D.C. and the Citizens Committee of New York. She was the first woman to be honored with the Pratt Institute Founder's Award (1994), and also received the "Legend" designation by the Pratt Institute (2008); was named a "Landmarks Lion" by the Historic Districts Council in 2010, and received the Elly Award honoring outstanding women leaders in 2012. She was the first woman to be elected, in 2001, as an honorary member of PEN-Slovakia; and in 2003, received the Gen. Milan R. Stefanik Award for contributing to the advancement of public knowledge about the Slovak nation and people. In 2004, The Slovak Republic's Ministry of Foreign Affairs decorated her for "her remarkable personal contribution to the development of a civil society in Slovakia." In fall 2012 she was the recipient of the John Jay Heritage Award. She was honored as one of the Pride of Landmark Lions by the Historic Districts Council in 2015 and later that year received the inaugural Preservation Award from the New York Preservation Archive Project. In 2019, she received the Ellen Stewart Centennial Medal at La Mama Theatre.

In 2021, as chair of the Diamonstein-Spielvogel Foundation, she worked with the Council on Foreign Relations to establish the Diamonstein-Spielvogel Project on the Future of Democracy. She has also established fellowships at the New York Public Library, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Columbia University, and Pratt Institute. In June 2021, she initiated the establishment of the Diamonstein-Spielvogel Institute for New York History, Politics, and Community Activism at the New-York Historical Society and currently serves as chair of the Institute's Advisory Board.

From 1956 to 1972, Barbaralee Diamonstein-Spielvogel was married to Alan A. Diamonstein, Esq., who served as Chair of the Virginia Democratic Party from 1982 to 1985, and represented, with distinction, Newport News in the Virginia House of Delegates, for 34 years.

In 1981, she married international business executive and former U.S. Ambassador to the Slovak Republic, Carl Spielvogel (1928-2021), whose papers are housed in the John W. Hartman Center for Sales, Advertising and Marketing History in the David M. Rubenstein Library at Duke University. She resides in New York City.

Alphabetically by last name of interviewee, then chronologically by program.

Scope and Contents

The Interviews, 1974-2017, series contains four subseries, including the interviews Barbaralee Diamonstein-Spielvogel produced for television broadcast; audio interviews that served as a basis for writing projects; video interviews made as part of the Barbaralee Diamonstein-Spielvogel Visiting Filmmakers Series at Duke in the 2010s, and two Conversations with Barbaralee Diamonstein-Spielvogel programs, with Roy Furman and Robert A.M. Stern, from 2014.

Broadcast video interviews, 1974-1994

Physical Description: 152 items

Language: English

Scope and Contents

The Broadcast video interviews, 1974-1994, subseries is comprised mainly of interviews, produced for broadcast by Barbaralee Diamonstein-Spielvogel, with members of New York's arts and architecture communities. The programs include About the Arts; American Architecture Now; Barbaralee Diamonstein and...; Fashion: The Inside Story; Handmade in America; Inside New York's Art World; Interior Design: The New Freedom; Visions and Images: American Photographers on Photography; as well as several interviews or programs independent of these series.

Digital video preservation copies of the interviews were made from magnetic analog master tapes suffering from varying degrees of deterioration. Tapes were cleaned, and sometimes even baked at a low temperature, to stabilize the tape base long enough to create a digital transfer. Listed in this series are the tapes that were found to be most viable in creating the digital masters, but many of the interviews have multiple tape copies associated with them. To view the full tape inventory, please contact Rubenstein Research Services. Links to the Barbaralee Diamonstein-Spielvogel YouTube Archive have been provided for access to the interviews.

The program, Hannah Arendt: Authoritarianism, Activism & Anti-Semitism, was led by Barbaralee Diamonstein-Spielvogel, Founder and Chair of Historic Landmarks Preservation Center; Founder and Chair, Diamonstein-Spielvogel Institute for NYC History, Politics and Community Activism. Participants in the program include: Leon Botstein, President, Bard College; Jana Schmidt, Director of Academic Programs, Hannah Arendt Center for Politics and Humanities, Bard College; David Bromwich, Sterling Professor of English, Yale University; Suzanne Nossel, Chief Executive Officer, PEN America; Yascha Mounk, Senior Research Fellow, Council on Foreign Relations; Associate Professor of the Practice of International Affairs, School of Advanced International Studies, Johns Hopkins University, Washington, DC; Michael Waldman, President and CEO, Brennan Center for Justice since 2005.

Hannah Arendt 14 October 1906 - 4 December 1975 370 Riverside Drive, Manhattan A humanist writer and philosopher whose guiding principle was "To Think What We Are Doing," Hannah Arendt thought boldly about our shared political world. Born in Hanover, Germany in 1906, Arendt studied under Martin Heidegger and Karl Jaspers. Arrested by the Nazis for her work with German Zionists in 1933, she fled to Paris, and then escaped from a detention camp in Gurs in France. She arrived in New York in 1941, a stateless Jewish refugee. Arendt's major books include The Origins of Totalitarianism (1951), The Human Condition (1957) and Eichmann in Jerusalem (1963), which redefined our understanding of the Holocaust, three of the most influential books of the 20th century. She also published Between Past and Future, Men in Dark Times, Crises of the Republic, and On Revolution. She lived at this address from 1959 to 1975, and is buried in the Bard College Cemetery.

Physical Description: 1:00:57

Scope and Contents

The Diamonstein-Spielvogel Institute for NYC History, Politics and Community Activism, Barbaralee Diamonstein-Spielvogel, Founder/Chair, and the New-York Historical Society Museum and Library present a program of The Diamonstein-Spielvogel Forum on History and the Public Good Series. New York Times opinion writer Margaret Renkl is the author of Late Migrations: A Natural History of Love and Loss (2019), and Graceland, at Last: Notes on Hope and Heartache From the American South (2021), winner of the 2022 PEN/Diamonstein-Spielvogel Award for the Art of the Essay.

A master prose stylist, based in Nashville, Tennessee, her lyrical writing juxtaposes the natural and man-made worlds, illuminating the complexity of the U.S. South. Editor and writer, Peter Catapano, has created and edited some of the most significant New York Times online series and helped launch the careers of several writers. In 2008, he received a Publisher's Award for his work in pioneering online series.
