Background

Scope and Content

Collection contains materials related to Cox's management of the Drum and Spear Bookstore and Press in Washington, D.C., his tenure as the Secretary General of the Sixth Pan-African Congress in Tanzania, and his collected subject files on the civil rights movement in the South. Drum and Spear materials consist of board meetings and governance, finances (including tax materials), store and publisher inventories, correspondence, and other materials documenting the store and press's relationship to the D.C. community and other stakeholders. Correspondents include Charles Cobb, Judy Richardson, and other SNCC veterans. The Pan-African Congress materials include press releases, programs, declarations, committee reports and memoranda, newspapers and printed materials, and other materials created and collected by Cox. Cox's Subject Files include copies of FBI surveillance reports on him, printed materials and clippings about the Second World Black and African Festival of Art and Culture, and other assorted materials about African and Black liberation groups and movements. Non-paper formats include photographs of events, a photograph album belonging to Cox, a few audiocassettes, and electronic records. Also present is a large group of CD-R and DVD-R discs containing interviews with veterans of the civil rights movement in the South, as well as recordings of the annual conferences for the Veterans of the Mississippi Civil Rights Movement.

Biographical/Historical

Courtland Cox was born in 1941 in New York City. While a Howard University student, Cox became a member of NAG and the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). He worked with SNCC in Mississippi and Lowndes County, Alabama, was the Program Secretary for SNCC in 1962, and was the SNCC representative to the War Crimes Tribunal organized by Bertrand Russell. In 1963 he served as the SNCC representative on the Steering Committee for the March on Washington. In 1973 Cox served as the Secretary General of the Sixth Pan-African Congress and international meeting of African people in Tanzania. He co-owned and managed the Drum and Spear Bookstore and Drum and Spear Press in Washington, D.C. Cox was appointed by President Clinton to serve as the Director of the Minority Business Development Agency (MBDA) at the Department of Commerce, a position he held until January 20, 2001. He is currently on the board of the SNCC Legacy Project.

Biographical note adapted from the SNCC Legacy Project website, accessed 2019 March.

Biographical/Historical

The Drum and Spear Bookstore was founded in 1968 by SNCC veterans Charlie Cobb, Judy Richardson, Courtland Cox, and Curtis Hayes (later Muhammed), developing out of the civil rights/black power movement in Washington, DC. It specialized in books written by black authors and books on Asian, African, and African American subjects. The founders took the name Afro-American Resources, Inc., and operated Drum and Spear Bookstore, Drum and Spear Press, and the Center for Black Education. The center held classes for community youth and sponsored educational forums and speakers. The Drum and Spear operated from 1371 Fairmont Street, Washington, D.C. NW, until its closure in 1974.
