Collection Title:

International Center for Transitional Justice (ICTJ) records, 1918-2020, 1970-2020

Creator:

International Center for Transitional Justice

Source:

Human Rights Archive (Duke University)

Abstract:

The International Center for Transitional Justice (ICTJ) is a non-profit organization that assists countries in pursuing accountability for mass atrocities and human rights abuses. Its records span the years 1918 to 2020, with the bulk of the materials dating from the 1970s-2020. Materials include ICTJ office and administrative files, program and conference records, annual reports, legal journals, human rights organization publications, reports and white papers, newspapers, subject files, teaching materials, trial transcripts, and posters and ephemera. There are many audiovisual and digital records. Groups and governing bodies represented in the materials include ICTJ, Amnesty International, United Nations organizations and missions, the European Union, the Washington Office on Latin America, the World Bank, Minority Rights Group International, criminal courts, truth commissions, and many others. Administrative files include the papers of former ICTJ Presidents and other staff files, including Juan E. Mendez, Priscilla Hayner, Louis Bickford, Alex Boraine, Ian Martin, Lisa Magarrell, and Marieke Wierda -- as well as institutional memory files that document the narrative of the creation and work of ICTJ. Acquired as part of the Human Rights Archive at Duke University.

Background

Scope and Content

The records of the International Center for Transitional Justice (ICTJ) span the years 1918 to 2020, with the bulk of the materials from the late 20th and early 21st century. The materials document the activities of ICTJ in its support of peace processes and to the pursuit of legal reparations and reconciliation in areas of conflict involving human rights violations. Formats in the collection include ICTJ office and administrative files, annual reports, single articles, legal journals, human rights organization publications, reports and white papers, conference proceedings, newspapers and clippings, trial transcripts, teaching materials, and photographs, as well as some posters and other ephemera such as fliers, graphics, invitations, and programs. There are many audiovisual and digital formats.

There are four main series: Geographic Files, Reference and Reports, Program and Subject Files, and Administrative Files. The Geographic series contains materials from countries directly impacted by the work of ICTJ and its partners. It is arranged by continent and then by country. These materials cover virtually every major case of human rights abuse and violation worldwide. There are also materials on affiliated armed conflicts such as the Iraq War and the war in Bosnia-Herzegovina; violent ethnic clashes; refugee movements; refugee and detention camps; women's rights; and case studies of human rights abuses.

The Reference and Reports series formed ICTJ's documentation library. The Program and Subject files contain thematically-arranged publications about ICTJ's main subject areas, such as transitional justice and reparations, as well as the programmatic materials from ICTJ conferences, workshops, publications, truth commissions, and program divisions. The final series, administrative files, is largely comprised of the files of former ICTJ presidents Alex Boraine and Juan Mendez and other staff files, including Louis Bickford, director of multiple ICTJ units. The staff files and the institutional memory files come together to form the narrative of the creation and work of ICTJ since its beginnings in 2001.

Each series also lists audiovisual materials and digital files. These materials are inserted into the series they correspond with. Formats include Betamax tapes, mini-DVs, DVDs, CDs, VHS tapes, and cassette tapes. The audiovisual materials include trial recordings, staff interviews, conference recordings, and truth commission proceedings; some of these were digitized by ICTJ staff. The born-digital records contain similar materials and also include training materials, ICTJ administrative materials, and program specific documents.

Acquired as part of the Human Rights Archive at Duke University.

Biographical/Historical

The International Center for Transitional Justice (ICTJ), founded in 2001 and based in New York City, is a global non-profit that works with partners in post-conflict, conflict, and democratic countries to pursue accountability, truth, and reconciliation for large-scale human right abuses, through a series of measures including criminal prosecutions, truth commissions, reparations programs, and institutional reforms. It also has offices in Bogotá, Colombia; Brussels, Belgium; The Hague, The Netherlands; Kampala, Uganda; Nairobi, Kenya; and Tunis, Tunisia.

Geographic Files, 1918-2016, (1969-2016)

Scope and Contents

The Geographic series, the largest in the collection, is comprised of files representing about 100 countries and forms the backbone of ICTJ's collection. The country files include ICTJ reports, journal articles, publications about governance, rule of law, political stability, reparations, and human rights violations, as well as materials from various country's truth and reconciliation commissions. These materials are unique to each country and provide insight into the impact ICTJ's work has on every citizen, from victims to perpetrators, children and women to ex-combatants.

Divided into subseries, by continent, for Africa, Asia, Europe, North America/ Caribbean, and South/Central America. Organized within continental subseries with a multi-regional section first, followed by country files in alphabetical order.

Multi-Continent, 1984-2005

Scope and Contents

The multi-continent records contain oversize posters and newspapers collected by ICTJ from several countries across the globe.

Reference and Reports, 1979-2014

Scope and Contents

In addition to the hands-on work they do, ICTJ has a robust research unit captured in the Reference and Reports Series. These materials were collected by ICTJ and formerly housed in their Documentation Center and Library at their New York headquarters. The publications include annual reports from human rights NGOs as well as thematic publications about children and women in conflict, displacement, refugees, disappearances, human trafficking, judicial reform, economic issues, security and conflict analysis, genocide and torture, accountability and human rights.

The Reference and Reports series contains publications, collected by ICTJ, of various human rights groups and organizations. This series is arranged into subseries: Global Publications and a set of geographic (by continent) files. The Global Publications subseries is subdivided into annual reports, human rights publications, and thematic publications, including: children and women; displacement, refugees, disappearances, and human trafficking; judicial reform, legal issues, economic issues and rule of law; security and conflict analysis; and genocide, torture, accountability and human rights.

The remainder of the series is divided by continent: Africa, Asia, Europe, North America/Caribbean, and South/Central America. Organized within continental subseries with a multi-regional section first, followed by country files in alphabetical order. Country files are divided into thematic subseries.

Global Publications, 1996-2013

Scope and Contents

Global publications includes an annual report sub-series containing annual reports from human rights NGOs, followed by publications aligning with major research themes from the ICTJ. The final two sections of this series are the human rights publications serials sub-series and the human rights publications sub-series. The human rights serials sub-series contains reports from NGOs, universities, and other human rights organizations that published more than two consecutive journals, newsletters, or bulletins. The human rights publications sub-series contains reports from NGOs, universities and human rights organizations, but are singular publications.

Administrative Records, 1973-2020

Scope and Contents

The Administrative Records series contains presidential files, logistical files from the organization's operation, and individual staff files. The latter group represents the records of 16 prominent ICTJ staff members; former presidents and co-founders, program directors and prosecution unit leaders. Formats in these records include office files, notebooks, printed materials such as publicity, articles, and publicastions, and audiovisual recordings.

Access Restrictions:

Access note. Original audiovisual materials are closed to use. Contact Research Services to request the production of user copies.

Access note. Series contains electronic records that require special equipment. Contact Research Services with questions.

Staff Files, 1973-2013

Scope and Contents

Contains the files of 16 ICTJ high-level staff members arranged alphabetically by last name. Includes the files of co-founders Alex Boraine, Priscilla Hayner, and Paul van Zyl, as well as long-standing criminal justice director Marieke Wierda and prosecutions director Vasuki Nesiah, and Louis Bickford, a multi-unit director. Most of the staff files include audiovisual components, including videos and sound recordings. These may require the production of listening or viewing copies.

The staff files narrate the story of ICTJ from its initial creation to its development into a strong, influential, global leader in transitional justice.

Arranged alphabetically by last name.

Institutional Memory/President's Files, 1990-2014

Scope and Contents

The files of ICTJ former presidents Juan Mendez and Alex Boraine. Alex Boraine was a co-founder of ICTJ and served as its president from 2001-2003. Juan Mendez served as the president from 2004-2009. Their work within ICTJ spans topics from the founding of ICTJ to truth commissions to NGO partnerships to transitional justice and human rights issues throughout the world. Their work brought them to many conferences, symposia, trainings, and speaking engagements and allowed them to publish numerous writings for more than a decade with ICTJ. This series is comprised of name files, organization files, conferences and events, transitional justice and human rights issues, ICTJ management, correspondence, and writings/publications.

Name files arranged alphabetically by last name, organization files arranged alphabetically by organization, and conferences and events arranged chronologically.
