Background

Scope and Content

This collection contains a variety of materials pertaining to the history of the Campus Club. Primary contents include notebooks kept by executive board members, scrapbooks created by various committees, and records documenting the work of numerous groups within the Club. Additional types of documentation contained within the collection are promotional materials, oral histories, meeting minutes and agenda, publicity clippings, membership records, digital photographs, and materials related to events planning.

Biographical/Historical

From the Campus Club website: Since its founding in 1914, the purpose of Campus Club has been to promote knowledge of the goals and structures of Duke University, to increase communication and friendship within the university and community, as well as to extend a warm welcome to new members. The membership encompasses a unique grouping of all women affiliated with Duke University, including among others: Duke faculty women, wives/partners of faculty, staff members, women officers and administrators, Duke volunteers, alumnae and wives of alumni, and family of all eligible women.
