Client Correspondence, 1978-2003

Physical Description: 20 boxes

Scope and Contents note

The Client Correspondence series contains files kept by the Virginia Barber Literary Agency on each of its clients, and occasional potential clients or non-clients, while they were active with the agency between 1978 and the sale of VBLA in 2001. Some files extend to 2003 and overlap the VBLA's acquisition by the William Morris Agency.

Most files include correspondence between Barber and her staff, the client, and various publishers and editors who reviewed the client's work and considered publication. Some files include drafts or proposals shared by the client. Occasionally, files include clippings, press coverage, or publicity materials created by the publisher for particular books or publications. All official legal and financial documents have been removed from this series to the Legal and Financial Materials series, which has some access restrictions. A small selection of files from non-clients and editors is included at the end of this series.
